President's message

By Debbie Smith

Hi All,

We have some really fun events coming up. Please take a minute and read the calendar. There will be a short business meeting on July 16th before we start the free painting. The slots are filling up so if you are considering bringing a friend to paint please let Lynn know. Since the year is half over, we have some things for our members to be thinking about. We will need a nomination committee as all of our board has been in their position for three years. Also, we need some volunteers for the Christmas party committee. Sorry if I seem to be badgering, I promise that is not my intent. I just want to give you all something to think about. We may be a small chapter but we are mighty. Keep cool and happy painting.

Debbie

Miriam, Debbie and I have taken several classes from her. We really enjoyed them. I do hope you will choose to attend.

What is Alla prima?

Alla Prima is a painting method where the artist aims to complete his work in one seccion while the paint is still wet.

A Brief History

The term comes from the Italian meaning “at once” and later the French referred to it as “premier coup”. It is also known as working “wet-on-wet” or “direct painting”. These days the term is more loosely applied to any painting done in a direct, expressive style, with minimal preparation.

The direct painting approach has been practised from the 17th century by painters such as Frans Hals, Valasquez and Caravaggio. In the middle of the 19th century the style became popular among impressionist painters due to the availability of commercial paints of a buttery texture also an ethos amongst painters for spontaneity and expression.

Some of the more famous painters from that period who worked in an alla prima style are as diverse as Paul Cezanne, John Singer Sargent, Sarrolla and Monet.
